Efficient sheep handling for effective farm management

Don't just work hard, work smart. This saying, employed widely across many business sectors, is of primary relevance to sheep farmers looking to improve the bottom line of their business.

Farmers know, however, that the application of this saying is far more challenging than they would prefer.

For sheep farmers, many of whom juggle several flocks spread over large areas, often on split sites and usually away from the yard, smart work is indeed hard work. But in challenging situations efficient systems can offer assistance.

It is no-longer necessary to take the sheep to the yard to use fixed pens. Instead, the stock person can take the mobile yard to the sheep, reducing the time and cost of carrying out routine tasks on the stock. Alligator, like other mobile sheep handling systems, makes it not just possible but practical to carry out a raft of management tasks including dosing, drenching, dagging, foot bathing, shearing, tagging or weighing in the field.

Recognising the diversity of British sheep farming, no two Alligator units are the same, each system can be tailored to your everyday needs. And because it's modular, it adapts from day-to-day, ready for the tasks in hand.

The whole system incorporates an integral trailer which can be towed by car, 4x4 or quad bike. Its super-strong lightweight construction is designed to be erected, used and packed away by one person, without assistance. All hurdles, gates and components are constructed from high quality aluminium which are tough and incredibly light.

Mobile sheep handling systems make handling sheep more practical and less of a chore – meaning it can be done more often, improving stock management and productivity.

When used together with compatible weighing equipment, such as Gallagher, Alligator systems provide a simple and efficient way of monitoring and managing the weight of stock. This concise monitoring of weight can have a further impact on the efficiency, and ultimate profitability, of the farm.

Keeping an accurate record of weight can allow farmers to better understand and manage growth rate, identify under performing animals, and most importantly finish stock at the optimum time.

Gallagher, in conjunction with Allflex, have developed a weigh platform which fits into the Alligator's race allowing the farmer to mobilise the task of weighing stock. When it comes to drawing lambs for market, Alligator and Gallagher, together, are invaluable.

The top of the range Gallagher indicators can be used in conjunction with Alligator and electronic identification (EID) to produce a variety of data in the field. They can automatically calculate weight gain, (either as total gain or DLWG), and will store multiple weighing sessions and records. Once back in the farm office, the operator can upload records and statistics to a personal computer for analysis and archiving.

Take the pens to the sheep not the sheep to the pens

The Alligator sheep handling system will efficiently save time on farm, reduce the stress of your livestock, and help improve biosecurity.

Alligator is a trusted, all-rounded sheep handling system which has been helping British farmers for over three decades. Constructed from strong, lightweight aluminium, the system is modular, engineered for strength and designed to be fully mobile. It is easily erected by just one person, and very straight forward to use which makes farming large areas and split sites much less challenging.

Whether you require a system to manage a small flock of 10 sheep, something larger that will handle 200+ sheep or anything in between, there's an Alligator system to suit your needs.

The Alligator system is:

Mobile

Alligator is a fully integrated road legal and RDW/VCA approved handling system
